Casino building plans still being discussed

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Casino Magic officials are expected to make some major decisions this week about the development direction of their complex in Bay St. Louis.
Gere Fennell, with the architectural firm of Lund Associates, said Tuesday that board members will select alternatives for constructing a hotel, entertainment complex and restaurant wing.
Meanwhile, golf course alternatives that could satisfy wetlands issues with the Army Corps of Engineers also are under study, casino officials said. And discussions with a potential condominium developer are underway, Fennell said.

All the components of the Casino Magic complex are to be detailed in a master plan the casino expects to give to the city soon, said Ken Krick, the development's vice president for planning and development.
Once that's done, he said, the casino will seek special zoning from the city to accommodate the development.
One key in the puzzle, he said, is the exact layout of the proposed 27-hole Arnold Palmer golf course, which has to be approved by federal officials who have oversight of wetlands issues.

Last May, Casino Magic officials held a groundbreaking ceremony for a $100 million, 15-story hotel featuring 1,500 rooms, and an entertainment and convention center that would seat some 5,000 visitors.
Construction, however, has been slow to start on those facilities. Last month, Casino Magic officials gave preliminary site plans for a fully-developed facility to city council members and Bay St. Louis Planning and Zoning Commissioners.
Krick said some elements of the overall plan require zoning changes. Instead of doing piecemeal re-zoning to achieve the final plan, he said the casino wants a special use district enacted to accommodate it.

What's being considered for construction now varies some from original plans. The hotel, for instance, was planned for construction in two phases, of 750 rooms each. Officials said this week that three construction phases, of 500 rooms each, now are under consideration.

Traffic problems

Bay City Council discusses solutions

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Bay St. Louis city officials accepted maintenance responsibility Tuesday for part of Blue Meadow Road, clearing the way for improvements to the main route to Casino Magic.
Solutions to other casino-related traffic woes remained elusive, however.
Mayor Eddie Favre said the planned upgrade of Blue Meadow Road includes providing a three-lane segment off Highway 90, to accommodate left and right turn lanes. Favre said that's probably all the upgrade necessary, assuming Casino Magic builds a new access road off Highway 90 to their facility.

The mayor said he's concerned, however, that the new access road project is bogged down in property acquisition problems.
Meanwhile, council members and the mayor debated the virtues of where the proposed access road should connect with Highway 90.
"We should take a stand if we want another intersection on Highway 90," said council member Charles Scianna.
Scianna and Favre said Hancock Medical Center officials would like to see Drinkwater Road incorporated in the project, as the route's intersection with Highway 90.

Creating yet another intersection, so close to Drinkwater, Scianna said, is only going to slow down traffic.
Council members also discussed possible reduction of speed limits on Highway 90, and where any additional traffic light might be placed along that route. The mayor said the ultimate placement of traffic signals is up to the city, when and if the state agrees that signals are justified.
Council member Tom Farve expressed frustration that the traffic problems have been studied, but no action taken.

Driver's license renewal driving many to Gulfport

BY MARY G. SEILEY
The sticky web of bureaucracy stuck on the wrong victim recently, when Bay St. Louis City Council member Thomas Farve had business with state officials -- at City Hall.
"It stinks," Farve said of the service he got from the Highway Department's driver's license bureau. He made the comment as he aired his experience at a council meeting Tuesday night.
Farve said his driver's license and other important papers had been stolen from him during a recent visit he made to visit his mother in a nursing home.
He found a lot of sympathy among other members of council, and the mayor, after detailing a nightmarish encounter with driver's license officials who use space in the old Bay St. Louis City Hall.
Council agreed to fire off a letter to the state Highway Department, asking that the number of personnel assigned to the Bay St. Louis office be increased, as well as the number of days per month the office is open.

Driver's license matters used to be handled by the state every Tuesday in the city-county library on Highway 90. But Mayor Eddie Favre said the library wasn't able to accommodate the state when it wanted to stay open two days a week, so he agreed to let them have space in the old City Hall.

Sometime after the move, however, the license bureau reverted to one-day per week service, and it's only available three weeks out of the month, council was told.

Shooting, chase during holidays

BY AMY PICKICH
The Thanksgiving holidays in Hancock County began with a bang last Wednesday in Waveland and ended with a high speed chase Sunday in Bay St. Louis.
Waveland Police Chief James Varnell said a Bay St. Louis woman was shot in the foot Nov. 24 as she was hanging clothes at her mother's house in Waveland's Idlewood subdivision.
Julie Ann Askera said she is okay, but is now hobbling around with a sore toe and a big hospital bill.
"It's scary to think how tragic this could have been," Askera said. "It was senseless."
Askera said she heard gun shots follow an "incredible pain" in her foot as she began to hang out her mother's laundry. When she removed her shoe, she said the .22 caliber bullet that went through her foot, fell out of her sock.
She said she didn't recall hearing shots prior to the pain in her foot, but a neighbor later told her that she reported shots earlier in the day to the police, but no one was found. The neighbor also told her she saw three males going into the area.

Varnell said no evidence was found in the surrounding woods, but that the shots were probably fired by juveniles. He said officers had received reports of kids shooting in the area.
The neighbor, who wished to remain anonymous, said she called police twice that day to report activity in the woods near her house. She said the second time it could have been police, but she was not sure.
"This isn't the first time we've heard shots back here," the neighbor said.
CAR CHASE
According to Hancock County Sheriff Ronnie Peterson, a high-speed chase on Highway 90 ended in Bay St. Louis Sunday morning with the arrest of a 19-year-old Tallahassee, Fla. man.

Gold Strike

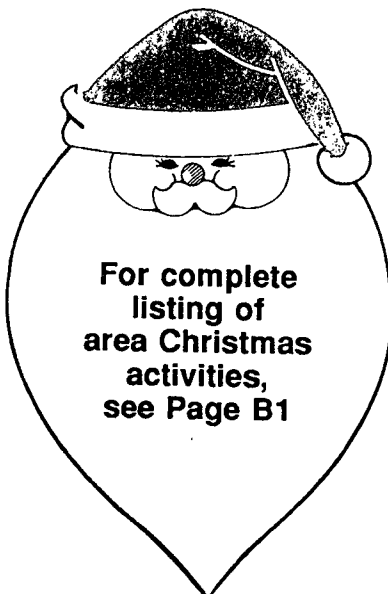

Developers hope for site approval Friday from Gaming Commission

BY MARY G. SEILEY
Developers of Gold Strike Casino on the Bay of St. Louis hope to win site approval from the State Gaming Commission in a special meeting Friday morning.
The $60 million complex in Harrison County is the offshoot of a $100 million casino resort development (Mississippi Landing) proposed for construction in Hancock County. When Mississippi Landing ran headlong into opposition, its principals optioned the Gold Strike site.

Gold Strike developer David R. Belding said Tuesday both proposed casino sites on the Bay of St. Louis have "great access" potential from I-10. Mississippi Landing would be built off Highway 603's juncture with the interstate in Hancock County. Gold Strike would be constructed off the DeLisle exit in Harrison County.

Life must be measured by thought and action, not by time.

How hard this is to do, Lord. Everything seems to be measured by time, yet I know there are those whose lives are in need of Your love. Help me move outside of time and carry Your hope to those You put into my path daily. Amen.

Better the storm with Christ than smooth waters without Him.

When You pass through the waters, I will be with you.

AAL assists Lutheran churches

Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) has awarded more than $1 million to Lutheran church bodies this year.

"AAL is strongly committed to strengthening the Lutheran community," said Douglas Olson, AAL grant program manager for church leadership benefits. "Through this block grant approach we're able to help support numerous projects of the church bodies which enhance the lives of Lutherans."

"This particular grant program allows the church body to identify and prioritize its own needs," said Olson. "AAL provides funding support so the church body can meet those needs. We encourage the church to use the grant dollars for projects that enhance leadership effectiveness, encourage volunteer service or promote organizational strengthening. In addition, we ask that projects supported have a 'ripple effect' towards congregations and people at the grass roots level."

Through a variety of grant programs including churchwide grants, AAL will provide more than $5 million to Lutheran institutions this year.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

Whom do you trust most?

Somewhere in this world there is someone whom you trust least of all. Then there is someone whom you trust most. Is it at all clear in your mind who those people are?

Or maybe you feel as my friend who told me: "Don't take it personally that I don't trust you. It is not that I don't trust you. I don't trust anyone!"

Aside from the mischievous leg-pulling in this statement which is rife with cynicism, there is the very serious angle which actually challenges us to trust in God, not in humans.

Just a few hours before I began writing this article, I went to the wake of a friend. Upon entering the church, I expected to see the minister and choir getting ready to begin the wake service with a greeting, prayer and song.

Instead, I was met with the news that the wake would be late in starting because the body had just arrived. In a word, the hearse had broken down enroute.

As we were leaving the wake, someone in my group mentioned that he had missed a golden anniversary celebration recently because his airplane was socked in for two hours.

That and the hearse incident were the latest of an endless string of reminders that Murphy's Law reigns supreme among human agents. The very best we can hope to do toward a fellow human is accord a very tentative, highly-conditioned trust.

If it is not a hearse, an airliner or some other human invention which foils our plans, it is something completely beyond our control such as weather or geological turmoil. To put our trust in any of these is risky most of the time.

Worst of all and likeliest of all, the destroyer of trust is usually the fickle self-interest, lack of commitment and mercenary bent of virtually every human, proving anew each day that, in many things, everyone has her/his price.

In the face of all this evidence, which none of us can afford to deny, the very dangerous questions persist: Whom do you trust least? Whom do you trust most?

Paraphrasing those questions may bring out their deeper meanings and implications. Who is most or least likely to let you down? To whom would you entrust your well-being, your life, or anyone or anything very precious to you?

Another paraphrase is: Who or what makes you secure? Whom or what do you trust to give you the best chance of success? You must be aware that what or whom you trust makes you feel secure about your safety, well-being, present and future.

Strangely, often tragically, again in the face of all the above-mentioned evidence, most of us seem to insist on placing our trust in individuals and groups who control the resources, power and prestige in political and social circles.

According to the buzz talk around us, most people first sidle up to these power groups, then put their trust in some human Messiah or some form of legal tender or possessions.

"It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to trust in man. It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to trust in princes" (Ps. 118: 8-9).

As a Christian, it is unthinkable that we trust any material resource or even any human more than we trust God. Sure, there is that one person whom we trust most here on earth, but it must be God alone whom we trust supremely.

St. Vincent Society distributes baskets

The St. Vincent de Paul Society of Our Lady of the Gulf Church reports due to the outstanding generosity of the community, the annual Thanksgiving basket distributions to the needy was very successful.

American Legion Auxiliary Post 139 donated groceries, and the Diamondhead Square and Compass Club donated 12 frozen turkeys. Parishioners provided monetary donations.

This enabled the St. Vincent Society to supply each of the families with a turkey, ham or meat of their choice. The above combined gifts provided Thanksgiving baskets for 84 families with a total of 231 people.

"There was a great deal of work involved in this distribution, and it could not have been accomplished without the help of Tommy and Kathy Chapman's OLG CYO group. Among the many Christian people helping us, one OLA student, who lives in Gulfport, made the trip over to offer her help," said society president David Treutel Sr.

In a related matter, Scianna said he's gotten several complaints about heavy casino traffic along Blue Meadow near Bay Senior High School. He suggested a uniformed police officer be on hand to direct school traffic, especially in the afternoons.

SEWER PROJECT

In other business, council was briefed on potential snags in the ongoing sewer line project. Public Works officials said the city lacks sufficient right-of-way to install gravity sewer lines in the Cedar Point area without tearing up a major stretch of Beach Boulevard.

Foreseeing major complaints over traffic disruption, council members said the city should seek donations of additional rights-of-way from affected property owners.

Council also agreed to proceed with plans to lay sewer lines along two vacant streets, although one official said those segments of the project will cost some $80,000 to $100,000 to complete.

About 1,000 feet of Julia Street and 1,000 feet of Harrison Court were at issue, briefly. Council President James Thrifley said the city shouldn't be in the business of doing subdivision-type work for potential developers. "We've got to be business people... We've got to look at all angles" of a project, he said.

But council member Scianna and the mayor defended the project. Favre said even if the segments cost $100,000 to complete, it's important that the city finish its plans for providing sewer service throughout the city.

"Then we don't need to come back" to finish the construction, he said.

Scianna was even more adamant the project is worthy. He said tax-paying property owners have been waiting for the sewer lines so they can build on their land. As it stands, the property won't qualify for septic tank installation, he said, and it can't be built upon.

"They're being penalized because they're in an area that's too low," said Scianna. "They've been in Bay St. Louis as long as anyone."

License

With an influx of out-of-state residents moving to this area, the driver's license bureau is busier than ever, council members agreed.

Council member Farve said he endured a wait of at least an hour, with a line of others who were equally distraught. Once inside the license room, he said, citizens had to take turns in waiting chairs, moving toward the state officials as seats became available.

Once at the head of the line, Farve explained how he'd come to lose his license, but was told he'd have to produce two forms of identification. He said he repeated his explanation to the official that he had lost all of his identification -- including his driver's license. Farve said there was no advance warning sign that the IDs were required.

The councilman said he was astounded that the state didn't have a computer terminal that could be used to verify his license, or that a telephone call to Jackson couldn't be made to clear up the matter. And, he said, he couldn't believe that only two people were on hand to serve the long line of customers.

"They only have two people... and who do you think they're blaming? City Hall!" Farve said.

Adding insult to injury, Farve said, when lunch time came, "they just bugged out."

Wednesday, Farve said he'll probably skip going back to the Bay St. Louis office altogether. "I think I'm going to Gulfport this evening to get one," he said of a replacement license.

Joe Gazzo, a drivers license bureau spokesman in Gulfport, said Wednesday that the two-day per week service in Bay St. Louis was stopped because the department doesn't have adequate manpower.

Officials in Jackson are trying to hire more people to bolster service, he said. Gazzo said once more people are available to man the bureau, "we'll look into the possibility of going back to two days."

ENTERTAINMENT FACILITY

In addition, several scenarios are being discussed for the entertainment complex. Fennell and Krick said the discussions include putting the facility on a barge, instead of on land. That would free up land to use for valet parking, and would route visitors through the gambling barge on the way to the entertainment facility.

Fennell said the size of the entertainment complex is up in the air at this point. While some would like a facility seating up to 6,000 people, the boxing matches that the casino sponsors normally draw only half that many people. Fennell said as a consequence, the facility that's built may be designed for only 3,500 people.

Fennell said discussions are on-going with a developer who would like to build 200 time-share condominiums on Casino Magic land. And, he said, thought is being given to expanding the casino's RV park.

Once-announced plans to expand the gaming capacity by adding barges to the existing floating casino have been put on hold. Casino spokesman Len James Giaccone said the construction of the hotel and golf course are taking priority over expanding the gambling facilities at this time. "There's just so much you can do at one time," said Giaccone.

County jail facility under a $4,000 bond. Waller is charged with various traffic violations and two counts of aggravated assault on police officers, according to Peterson.

Peterson said the chase, which lasted about 15-20 minutes began around 9 a.m. when state trooper Glen Grice attempted to stop Waller's vehicle for speeding. Grice radioed for help and was assisted by Bay St. Louis and Waveland police officers and sheriff's deputies.

Peterson said Waller's vehicle reached speeds of 90 m.p.h. and traveled on the wrong lane of Highway 90.

"Fortunately there were no injuries," Peterson said.

Peterson said Waller will be extradited to Florida, where the car was stolen.

"All in all, it was a quiet, safe holiday," Peterson said. "We were very fortunate."

Forestry commission crew chief and acting dispatcher Frank Delside reported a number of fires in the Bayou La Croix area that began on Friday and Sunday.

Delside said the fires were relatively small, but some took as long as two hours to control. He said reports from the investigation indicate arson as the cause.

Delside said more fires were set on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, probably by the same persons responsible for the previous fires.

From Wednesday to Sunday, the Bay St. Louis police department reported four traffic accidents, six arrests and three DUI's. The Sheriff's Department had six people booked for DUI arrests over the weekend, including the ones from Bay St. Louis.

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The annual Hancock County Red Ribbon Christmas parade is scheduled for Saturday morning on Highway 90.

Registration for parade entries will be between 9 and 10 a.m. All parade participants must be registered before lineup.

A table will be set up at the corner of Beach Boulevard and Highway 90 for registration.

Lineup begins at 10 a.m., and all participants are asked to use Second Street, so they will be facing in the proper direction.

The big parade's route will be Beach Boulevard to Main Street, Main to Dunbar Avenue, Dunbar to Highland Drive, Highland to the J.D. McCullough Stadium.

The Operation Merry Christmas flag football game is to follow the parade and should begin about 1 p.m. This will be the third year for the big flag football game, and the series is now tied at 1-1.

The football game will pit the Hancock County Sheriff's Office against the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

The Bay Police team is composed of patrolmen, Bay firefighters, BMR officers and city employees.

The sheriff's team is comprised of deputies, state troopers, Diamondhead firefighters and county workers.

Each team has several members of the Waveland Police Department.

Entry to the football game is one toy per person.

A football court will be from area schools' sixth graders and kindergartens.

A queen and princesses are to be crowned.

The game was hotly contested last year on a very cold day, and I am sure spectators will be in for a great football game.

I hope to see everyone at the Red Ribbon Christmas parade and also at the benefit football game Saturday.

The City of Waveland and Kiln community will kick off the Christmas festivals on Sunday evening with Santa making special appearances.

Waveland's Festival of Lights will begin at 5 p.m. with the lighting of the Coleman Avenue Christmas lights.

Merchants along Coleman will be serving refreshments, such as hot cider, candy, cookies, punch, hot chocolate, popcorn, soft drinks, eggnog, brownies beignets, coffee, etc.

There will be two trolleys departing from Coleman to view the Christmas Card Lane (Mollere Drive) and Christmas Door Lane (Lafitte Drive) and other decorated residences.

The lighting of the big bonfire by Santa Claus at the head of Coleman Avenue is set for 8 p.m.

Junior Girl Scouts will be caroling down Coleman, and various choral groups will be singing Christmas carols on the steps of city hall.

Coleman Avenue will be closed to vehicular traffic beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Kiln's lighting of the Christmas tree located at the intersection of Highway 603 and the Kiln/DeLisle Road is set for 6 p.m. Sunday.

This event is sponsored by the North Hancock Business and Professional Association.

The Christmas tree lighting will be followed with refreshments, and Santa will be on hand for the youngsters to place their special wishes for Christmas.

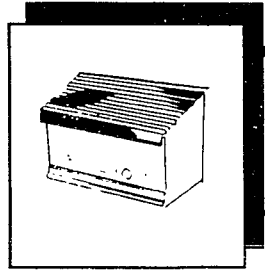

Billie Faye Lyons, president of the association, reports this year's celebration will be the largest ever, and everyone is invited.

I hope to see you at the Kiln and Waveland activities Sunday evening.

Pile drivers

Waveland officials must stop bickering

To the Editor:

We have been reading in the paper of the constant fighting at the Waveland City Council meetings.

What a disgrace that our officials can't act like the Bay officials. If you go to the Waveland meetings, the mayor won't let you speak.

It is time for the citizens of Waveland to voice disgust with city hall and to remember election time and make a clean sweep at city hall.

Let's elect officials who will work for the people and stop this constant bickering. It makes us look like fools.

Wake up, Waveland, and let's band together to clean out city hall next election.

Customers need more services than gas, food

To the Editor:

Your response (Sea Coast Echo, Nov. 11, Letters to the Editor) to Ms. Davis' complaint re: lack of "service at so-called "service stations" — they are listed as such in the telephone directory — is an apology for non-service to us who require full service.

And, by full service, I do not mean merely help with pumping gas. We also need: tires, battery level, hoses and fluid levels checked; windshields washed; etc., etc.; which also means remedying anything needed for these — inflating tires, adding fluids, replacing filters, etc., etc.

All these things I have always depended on my service station to do for me, since I cannot do myself — and this is not merely due to age or other handicap, or not wanting to get my hands and clothes soiled by working under the hood, or "squatting" to tend to tires, but also to the fact that I'm not knowledgeable enough about engine parts to diagnose when and what needs are indicated by these checks.

I have been a credit card holder of major oil companies (Chevron included) for many years (and of recent years pay more for this "privilege," although all gasoline charges are paid in full monthly), but am fast phasing out those which no longer fill my needs as a responsible car driver, or which no longer accord me "service with a smile" (which is still available at Mr. Griffin's Exxon in Gulfport).

Sorry, Ms. Kruse, but your "sensitivity to the needs of all customers" is at complete variance with doing away with anything but selling gas and "fast food."

Sincerely,
Dorothea D. Martin

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

South Mississippi fares well during session of Congress

Now that the first session of the 103rd Congress has come to a close, I would like to reflect on many of this year's highlights.

First, in light of Congress and the Administration's strong push, over my objections, for increased cuts in defense spending, Mississippi fared well. Mississippi's entire delegation was able to fend off base closure attacks and attempts to cut troop strengths to precariously low levels.

Military facilities throughout South Mississippi are scheduled for millions in new construction. And nearly $3.5 billion in new ship contracts could find their way to South Mississippi's shipyards. In addition, passage of several maritime and shipbuilding initiatives, which I sponsored, should help stimulate growth in both of these industries.

The House of Representatives successfully included a 2.2 percent increase in basic pay for active and reserve military personnel, upon the President's failure to include funds or authorization of any pay increase in his 1994 budget request. The raise goes into effect Jan. 1.

Additionally, the Defense bill included a recommended $1.2 million to conduct a study on what medical specialists have labeled "Desert Storm Syndrome." The study will focus on Persian Gulf War veterans who were exposed to hazardous chemicals and materials.

Congress continues to see the importance of Keesler's 815th Weather Reconnaissance Squadron. The hurricane-hunter program received $1.9 million to cover operation, maintenance and personnel expenses.

In the way of public works projects, many new programs on the horizon should increase commerce and control flooding problems in Harrison, Hancock and Jackson counties. Pascagoula's port and harbor will receive $800,000 in new funds to begin work on a deep draft navigation project. Phase I of the $17.6 million project will widen the Gulf Channel from 350 to 450 feet. Three-point-six million is appropriated for routine maintenance of Pascagoula's channel, approaches and harbor.

Gulfport's port and harbor received more than $9 million to continue work on the state's channel deepening project, and for routine maintenance. Biloxi's harbor gets $838,000 for channel maintenance. And in Pass Christian, the city received $693,000 for harbor maintenance and dredging.

In the way of military construction, South Mississippi received the lion's share of the state's total military construction budget. Keesler received $8.7 million for student dormitory upgrades, a fire training facility, underground fuel storage tanks and a sanitary sewer system upgrade.

Gulfport's Naval Construction Battalion received $4.4 million for a family service center and child development center. Camp Shelby got $11 million for a vehicle/tank wash facility and to begin construction on a multi-million dollar regional school facility. Meanwhile, Gulfport's Air National Guard received $1.2 million to upgrade the base's electrical distribution system and replace underground fuel storage tanks.

In maritime related issues, the House has passed and the Senate has received a bill that would close a loophole in U.S. trade laws that exempt foreign-flag cruise vessels from many U.S. laws. The bill, which I sponsored, would stimulate both the shipbuilding and maritime industries.

Already having been approved by Congress and signed into law by the President, the "National Shipbuilding Initiative," which I sponsored, will go a long way towards defense conversion. The new law will yield nearly $2 billion in shipbuilding loan guarantees to help militarily dependent U.S. shipyards build for the worldwide commercial market.

Unrelated to the dozens of appropriation or authorization bills that have been passed by Congress this year, Harrison County was successful in its bid to acquire a military surplus helicopter. Specifically tuned and outfitted for drug enforcement, the $159,000 Loach helicopter has become a useful drug-fighting tool for many of South Mississippi's law enforcement agencies.

As I now prepare for the second session of the 103rd Congress, we can all look back at the first session as one of success for South Mississippians. The first session solidified Mississippi's importance as a key player in America's future defense strategy.

In the area of commerce, anticipated growth at many of our harbors will encourage both pleasure craft and commercial vessels to call on our ports. And last but not least, many of the federally funded programs that we often take for granted, which protect us from floods, hurricanes and illegal drug activity, continue to be funded by Congress.

Congress supports all of these programs for one simple reason, because they are not only vital to Mississippi, but they are vital to the whole country as well.

A risky education

Getting an education is not any easy task for many students in the state. In fact, it's become downright dangerous for many.

School violence in Mississippi has risen dramatically in the last year, making many students afraid to attend classes on a daily basis. In Jackson, public schools have increased security including the addition of security guards and metal detectors at several schools.

Imagine going to school each day, wondering if you may be the next victim of a violent crime. It seems that education would be the last thing on many of the young minds in public schools. Survival is the new lesson for the day.

In Jackson, the Coalition for School and Community Safety has been formed and will begin meeting in early December to tackle the issues of public school violence.

In order for Jackson and the entire state to move ahead, youth violence must be controlled. Mississippi's future relies on a positive education system, and education must be available — risk free — to all youth.

Mississippi has continued to be at the bottom in public education, and school violence is just one more weight to pull the state down.

It's time for the state to take control of public school violence in order to make obtaining an education a positive experience.

Let's turn off the school violence so we can turn students on to education.

Lutherans assist Crisis Pregnancy Center

BY JANET MCQUEEN
The Bay-Waveland Crisis Pregnancy Center has found a friend in the Lutheran Women's Missionary League. Proceeds from a recent yard sale and dinner were matched by the Aid Association for Lutherans for a $1,200 donation to the center. Located on Highway 90, next to the Unique Shoppe in Waveland, the Christian-based center offers free counseling and pregnancy tests for women. It is staffed by volunteers and operates entirely on donations.

Maternity and baby clothes and furnishings are available for the needy, according to director Miriam Smith. A 24-hour hotline (467-3444) is manned.

"We want a woman to know that she has an option, that she need not be afraid. She can air her feelings without being judged," said Smith.

Adoption, abortion and coping with an unplanned pregnancy are discussed—and the woman is left to make her own choice. Post-abortion patients are also counseled, said Smith.

Educational videos and literature are stocked in a lending library.

Three churches currently subsidize operation of the center—Word of Faith, The Lord's Place and Harvest Time. Wal-Mart donates damaged cases of diapers, clothing and baby items.

The center is open on Tuesdays and Thursdays from noon until 4 p.m. For information, call 467-3444.

Members of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League present Bay-Waveland Crisis Pregnancy Center director Miriam Smith with a check for $1,200. The women raised $600 through a yard sale and the sale of dinners prepared by church member Juanita Weary. Reward offered in recent forrest fires

BY AMY PICKICH

Hancock County Forestry Commissioner Mark Jamieson said a $500 reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest of the persons responsible for several recent fires near Bayou La Croix Street.

Jamieson said the fires, the first of which was started on Friday, are still under investigation. "All are definitely arson," he said.

According to Jamieson, it took firefighters about two hours to put out a fire that burned 15 acres. On Sunday, a fire in the marsh between Diamondhead and the Jourdan River burned out on its own. Tuesday's fires, which he said could have been set on Monday, burned a total of about 20 acres.

On Wednesday, three fires, which burned about 24 acres of land took firemen about four hours to control.

Jamieson said some portions of timberland was severely destroyed, but overall the damage was not severe.

However, Jamieson said, "a lot of tax money is being wasted every time we have to go out there."

The forestry commission was assisted by Bayside Park and East Hancock volunteer firefighters.

Jamieson said anyone in the area who is control burning should notify the commission. For more information call Jamieson at 255-4885 or 255-7152.

Belding said developers still hope to "revive" the Hancock project plans.

Meanwhile, however, they hope to get the state's approval for Gold Strike, possibly beginning construction in January or February.

BMR INVOLVED

Belding said Gold Strike engineers have been working with state Bureau of Marine Resources officials to resolve environmental concerns that were raised during preliminary site assessment. The project was removed from the Gaming Commission's November agenda, Belding said, in light of several environmental considerations.

BMR director Joe Gill said Tuesday the several concerns his agency has were outlined for the developers in a recent meeting. He said he expects Gold Strike will have presented enough response to the concerns by Friday for his agency to recommend for or against site approval.

BMR's concerns include several "conflicts" with the state's Coastal Program, Gill said. For instance, a proposed canal from the Bay to the floating casino basin is a "dead end" route, he said. The basin is supposed to be connected to a body of water by two entrances, he said.

In addition, the site is programmed for "general use" in the state's coastal plan. The casino development is a commercial activity and would require a redesignation as such, he said. In addition, there are some wetlands issues to be resolved with the land-side portion of the proposed development, Gill said.

Gold Strike's site is the first to come under environmental scrutiny at the front-end of the gaming license procedure. Gill said his agency has asked to be involved at the initial site inspection level for all new casino developments, before investors have sunk huge sums in preliminary plans only to run into major environmental problems.

State Gaming Commission Director Paul Harvey did not respond to repeated telephone calls concerning the agenda for Friday's special meeting. His deputy director, Chuck Patton, declined to confirm or deny what casino matters may be up for discussion at the special session.

"I feel uncomfortable confirming that," said Patton when asked if Gold Strike is on the agenda. He said since the director has the authority to set the agenda, only the director knows for certain what may be on it.

Host a tree-trimming party that's fun & easy on the host

The holiday tree is perhaps the most beloved symbol of the season. Invite friends over to share in the delight and excitement of decorating the tree — it's a perfect reason to have a party.

With a casual and relaxed buffet, guests have time to mingle, hang a few ornaments and nibble when they want to. Serving a festive buffet is easy. You don't need a lot of food to make a fabulous spread, but what you do serve needs to have eye appeal as well as taste good.

Substantial appetizers in several shapes, textures and flavors will add variety. Also, set up the food in several locations throughout the room — or in a couple of rooms — so no one area gets too congested.

For sipping, purchased eggnog dusted with grated nutmeg, and hot cider or cranberry juice are good choices. Veggies and dip are popular munchies, and for a special presentation, arrange the cut-up vegetables in a lettuce lined basket, place dips in vegetable "containers" like hollowed out bell peppers. Save time by purchasing the dips and veggies already prepared from the supermarket.

Offer a choice of versatile beef appetizers for the main course. Beef & Cheese Pinwheels look and taste fancy, but they're easy. Herbed cream cheese is spread over flour tortillas, then layered with sliced roast beef, spinach leaves and jarred roasted red bell peppers. Roll up and refrigerate, then cut into slices just before serving time. Purchasing deli roast beef sliced to order puts you a step ahead.

Make-Ahead Beef & Artichoke Appetizers also rely on convenient prepared ingredients. Sliced deli roast beef, artichoke hearts, Cherry tomatoes and olives are marinated in prepared Italian dressing. To serve, the beef slices are rolled, cut into pinwheels then threaded onto skewers along with the other ingredients.

A warm appetizer like Oriental Beef Kabobs will complement the chilled selections. A few hours in advance of the party, prepare the hoisin glaze, and cut lean beef top sirloin steak into strips. Weave steak strips onto skewers with green onion; refrigerate both the skewers and glaze until party time. Then, just broil the beef skewers, brushing with the glaze during the last few minutes of broiling.

For dessert, make your holiday specialty if there's time. Or, order assorted cookies from the bakery. Serve coffee topped with whipped cream for an elegant finish.

BEEF & CHEESE PINWHEELS

Preparation time: 20 minutes
12 ounces thinly sliced deli roast beef
1 package (4 ounces) herb flavor soft spreadable cheese
4 large flour tortillas (about 10 inches)

2 cups spinach leaves (about 20 leaves)
1 jar (7 ounces) roasted red peppers, rinsed, drained

1. Spread cheese evenly over one side of each tortilla. Place deli roast beef over cheese leaving 1/2-inch border around edges. Place spinach leaves over beef. Arrange peppers down center, over spinach. Roll up tightly; wrap in plastic wrap. Refrigerate at least 30 minutes or up to 6 hours before serving.
2. To serve, cut each roll crosswise into 8 slices; arrange cut side up on serving platter. Makes 32 appetizers

MAKE-AHEAD BEEF & ARTICHOKE APPETIZERS

Preparation time: 30 minutes
1 pound deli roast beef, sliced

1/8 inch thick
1/4 cup prepared fat-free Italian dressing
2 cans (14 ounces each) quartered artichoke hearts, drained
1 basket cherry tomatoes, cut in half
1 can (6 ounces) small pitted ripe olives, drained (optional)
1/4 cup prepared fat-free Italian dressing

1. Place deli roast beef in utility dish. Add 1/4 cup dressing; turn beef to coat.
2. In large bowl, combine artichoke hearts, tomatoes, olives, if desired, and remaining dressing; toss to coat.
3. Remove beef from dressing (one slice at a time); roll up tightly from wide end. Cut into 3/4-inch wide pinwheels.

4. To assemble, alternately thread two beef pinwheels, two artichoke pieces, two tomato halves and to olives, if desired, on each of twenty-four 6-inch bamboo skewers. Serve immediately or cover and refrigerate until serving time. Makes 24 appetizers

ORIENTAL BEEF KABOBS

Total preparation and cooking time: 25 minutes
1-pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1 inch thick
6 green onions, cut diagonally into 1-1/2 pieces

Glaze:
1/4 cup hoisin sauce
2 tablespoons dry sherry
2 teaspoons packed light brown sugar
1 teaspoon dark sesame oil

1. Soak 16 6-inch bamboo skewer in enough water to cover 10 minutes; drain.
2. Meanwhile combine glaze ingredients; set aside.

3. Trim fat from beef steak. Cut steak crosswise into 1/4-inch thick strips. Alternately thread beef, weaving back and forth, and green onion pieces onto skewers.
4. Place kabobs on rack in broiler pan so surface of kabobs is 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil 5 to 6 minutes, turning once. Brush both sides of kabobs with glaze during last 1 or 2 minutes of broiling. Makes 16 appetizers

Keep Christmas trees fresh, beautiful

For many people, the smell and sight of a fresh evergreen trimmed with shining ornaments is a festive part of the holiday season.

In recent years, many families have been "coming back to the farm" to enjoy the experience of choosing and cutting their own Christmas trees.

"About half of the people coming to tree farms own artificial trees, but they miss the experience of finding and cutting their own tree — just like in the 'old days,'" said Dr. Stephen Dicke, area extension forester in Raymond. "Searching for and bringing home the perfect tree adds an extra family memory to the holidays."

When buying a tree from a retail lot, test it for freshness by looking for soft sap on the cut base. If the needles of the tree bend without breaking, the tree is fresh.

Consumers should wait until at least three weeks before Christmas to bring a live tree indoors. If they must cut the tree before then, Dicke recommended storing the tree outside in the shade in a container of water to minimize stress.

Both pre- and freshly-cut trees need to be transported in a covered vehicle or in the trunk of a car. A 5 to 10 mile trip on the top of a car can dry out a fresh tree.

"Before selecting a tree, decide where it will be displayed. If the tree will rest in a corner, only one or two sides will show, so select a tree that is not 'perfectly' shaped," Dicke said.

The Louisiana-Mississippi Christmas Tree Association offered the following tips for the freshest and safest natural Christmas tree:

— Saw off the butt end of the tree one-half to 1 inch above the original cut and immediately place the tree in water in a cool place until time to display it.
— Never let the cut tree run out of water; check it daily.

— Use an adequate tree stand — one that holds about a gallon of water.
— Mist the branches and foliage with water daily to keep them moist and fresh.

— Be sure the tree is well-supported and away from fireplaces, radiators, television sets or other sources of heat that will dry out the tree. Never block an exit with a tree.

— Never use lighted candles or other open flames on or near Christmas trees.
— Check electric lights and connections. Never use worn, frayed wires or electric cords.

— Unplug electric lights when no one is home.
— Avoid use of combustible decorations and flammable reflectors for colored lights. Keep metal foil "icicles" or tinsel away from bulb sockets.

The Bob Harmon Forecast

NFL Forecast for Sunday and Monday Dec. 5-6

Buffalo, 27—L.A. Raiders, 20

The Bills had won four straight in this series until last year, when the Raiders sacked Jim Kelly five times on the way to a 20-3 victory. L.A. can't defend against the run—Buffalo's strength.

Denver, 24—San Diego, 18

In the second week of the season, John Elway was nearly flawless in leading the Broncos to a 34-17 win over the Chargers. Against San Diego's nonexistent pass defense, he'll keep on throwing.

Detroit, 26—Minnesota, 23

Five weeks ago the Lions and Vikings engaged in a rare offensive battle, until an interference call against Minnesota led to the TD that gave Detroit the win, 30-27. Another tight game.

Green Bay, 21—Chicago, 17

The Packers' defense beat up on the Bears on Halloween, sacking Jim Harbaugh seven times and winning 17-3. Chicago has the better defense, but its anemic offense will once again help Green Bay.

Houston, 28—Atlanta, 14

These two teams haven't met since the Falcons ran away from the Oilers in '90, 47-27. Houston was the better team then, too, proof that this could go either way—but Atlanta's D is outclassed.

Kansas City, 17—Seattle, 10

Over the past two seasons the Chiefs have dominated the Seahawks, winning four straight games, though none has been a blowout. Both are better without the ball, so expect a low-scoring affair.

Miami, 30—N.Y. Giants, 26

The game of the week, between teams that have met only twice. The Dolphins won in '72, and went on to win the Super Bowl. The Giants won in '90—and won the Super Bowl. So whoever wins...

New Orleans, 29—Cleveland, 19

Both teams are involved in great division races, though only the Saints still will be at season's end. The Browns, who haven't beaten N.O. in 12 years, are scoring infrequently and fading fast.

N.Y. Jets, 28—Indianapolis, 22

Three weeks ago the Jets racked up 458 yards—141 of them from tailback Johnny Johnson—and beat the Colts 31-17. N.Y. is clearly the better team, but it hasn't beaten Indy twice since '86.

Phoenix, 24—L.A. Rams, 12

The Cardinals are near the top of our list of teams that are better than their records, while the Rams are about as good as theirs. Phoenix should easily win its third straight over Los Angeles.

Pittsburgh, 32—New England, 14

In their last three games against the Steelers, all losses, the Patriots have scored a total of 19 points. Pittsburgh often looks like a team that could fall to N.E.—but not playing at home.

San Francisco, 34—Cincinnati, 13

The Bengals showed they still had a pulse by holding the Jets at bay two weeks ago, but the 49ers have beaten them seven straight times since '78. Cincinnati can't touch S.F. in any category.

Washington, 21—Tampa Bay, 20

We never thought a pick like this would be an upset, especially with the Redskins' 3-0 record against the Buccaneers, but they look almost dead even. It's time for Washington to come alive.

Dallas, 29—Philadelphia 24

(Monday) The first time the Cowboys and Eagles played, Emmitt Smith ran for a club-record 237 yards in a 23-10 Dallas win. Philly's struggling, but anything can happen in the NFC East on a Monday night.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

Elusive alligator the subject of tall tales; Nine Mile area yields trout, reds

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The Turtle had to beat feet down to Bayou Caddy this past week to check out some new information that just became available. Now I know that some of the fishin' buddies are gonna get on my case because the information has to do with hunting and not fishin'.

Ya' see, there have been big-time plenty noises about the alligator hunting season opening up at a specific location on the mouth of Bayou Caddy. For those folks who have been reading the news over the past few weeks, you will know what I am talking about.

For those folks who have not been following the news I'm gonna tell you anyway. There have been reports of alligators inhabiting the bilges of the jubilee Casino.

OLA remains undefeated

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Our Lady Academy soccer team is off to a blazing 4-0-1 start. The Crescents remain undefeated after several wins last week.

Last week the Crescents defeated the Bay High Tigers by a score of 3-1. Katherine Scaife scored two goals off assists by Erin O'Brien and Beth Dillenkoffer. Sarah Smolensky scored the remaining goal off an assist by Jonna Ellis.

On Saturday, OLA traveled to New Orleans to play Country Day. The Crescents came away with the win by the score of 4-2.

Sarah Smolensky scored two goals with Andie Fillingame and Nicki Krost scoring the remaining goals.

On Monday, OLA shutout Mercy Cross of Biloxi by the score of 7-0.

Andie Fillingame and Erin O'Brien each scored two goals in the contest. Amanda McPhail, Melissa McPhail, and Letty Boelte each scored one goal.

The alligators are reported to be so plentiful that the owners allegedly got special permission from BMR to have a special alligator hunting season aboard the casino. To help direct you to the location of this special hunt, all you gotta do is look for the green signs on the road that show a picture of an alligator.

There is one main restriction on the hunt that you should be aware of: You have to use something called "green bait." I understand the green bait with the most zeros after a number works the best.

There must be some substance to all of these rumors because I overheard some people saying that they found some "bones," and when they rolled the "bones," they turned up snake eyes. I heard another person, who was rolling the "bones" in an apparent attempt to draw an alligator into the open, say: "Come on baby, papa needs some new shoes." People say that alligator skin makes good shoes, so I guess he was hunting for alligators.

Finally, I heard that a man named Henry was supposed to be the chief caretaker of the alligators. In order to ensure a biological correct harvest of the Jubilee alligators, he reportedly is gonna paint a bull's eye on the backs of the alligators that are to be harvested.

Since all of the fishin' buddies know for a fact that the Turtle never stretches the truth, the Turtle made a special trip to check out the lower levels of the Jubilee barge. The place was dry as the desert and there was no way that an alligator could live in this place. Yet . . . ?

The Nine Mile area of the Louisiana Marsh has been on a continuous string of trout and red production for the past several months. I mean that almost anyone who has gone to this area has come home with trout and reds.

The only really key factor has been the weather. If there are 100-mph winds and 25-foot seas, the fishing slowed down for a while in this spot. Otherwise, the fishing has been spectacular in this whole area.

Some folks have had a little trouble finding the Nine Mile area and have ended up in Three Mile Pass. There is a nice red light at Three Mile Pass that is a great help when you are crossing open water. So it is natural to head for Three Mile Pass.

To find the Nine Mile area, you just multiply by three (or is it add three?)

To ease this confusion, let's just go back to Gamblers' Bend Point on Half Moon Island. From the trip of this point, you will take a compass heading of 130 to get to Three Mile Pass or a compass heading of 160 to get to the mouth of Blind Pass, which leads into the Nine Mile area.

I know there was an additional three somewhere. Thirty degrees is the difference on the compass heading between Three Mile Pass and the Blind Pass-Nine Mile area.

By the way, the mouth of both passes have a red light that flashes every four seconds. A map of the area will help you get back home.

The trout in the marsh area are biting on live shrimp, caca-hoes and a variety of artificials.

The troll fishing on all of the inland bayous and canals are producing some really nice size trout. The best baits seems to be either the plastic caca-ho in the grey color or the Thin Pin in the natural perch color.

I am asking all of the fishin' buddies to please help in a trout study being conducted by Gulf Coast Research Laboratories by participating in the Spotted Seatrout Information Study.

You can obtain the necessary record sheets by writing to: GCRL, P.O. Box 7000, Ocean Springs, MS 39576. Or Call 872-4282.

All you need to do is to record the date, place and length of the trout you catch. This study will impact on the future of speckled trout fishing in our area.

This is the time to add positive input to our trout information base to ensure the future of our sport. Don't trust others to do it for us.

We all know the results of not getting involved.

This week's wonderful wise words: Bring plenty of gnat repellent if you plan to go fishing.

Do you need a lot of green bait to hunt alligators, Turtle?

Law enforcement officers don football uniforms for third annual rivalry game for charity

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The local law enforcement officers will face off in their third annual charity football game to benefit the needy children of the county during this Christmas season.

The game, called Operation Merry Christmas, was started three years ago to provide gifts for the children of the community during the Christmas season.

The game between the Bay St. Louis Police Department and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department and the Mississippi Highway Patrol will be played on December 4. The site for the 1 p.m. kickoff is Bay High football stadium.

There is a parade scheduled to start at the Bay St. Louis bridge at 11 a.m. The route for the parade will go down the beach to Main Street, from Main Street to Dunbar Avenue, from Dunbar Avenue to Highland Drive, down Highland Drive and into the J. D. McCulloch stadium.

Matt Karl of the Sheriff's Department said, "We started this game to give something back to the community. If we can survive the bumps and bruises, then it is well worth our effort for the children.

"These children deserve a nice Christmas, and this is our way of giving it to them."

"The series between the two teams is tied at 1-1. The average age of our team is in the middle 30's, so we aren't spring chickens. Youth doesn't win these games, it is knowledge. We plan on taking the trophy back."

Bay Police Department team captain Kevin Fayard said, "The Sheriff's Department doesn't have a chance...The bigger they are, the harder they fall."

"We have a lot of people who played junior college ball, so we know how to win," countered Karl. "Our quarterback, Steve Lingren, was drafted out of high school by the Baltimore Orioles. We have the talent and also the experience. We coming for them."

Admission for the game is one toy. Also featured is a court comprised of area sixth graders and kindergarteners. From these girls, a queen and princess will be crowned.

Heaps considered for Rhodes Scholarship

Three Mississippi State seniors and a new alumna of the university are among nine in the final state-level screening process for a 1994 Rhodes Scholarship.

The students include Christopher M. Heaps of Waveland, Joel B. Kavanagh of Ocean Springs and Erik P. Lessmann of Huntsville, Ala. The fourth candidate is Shannon Nunnelee of Belden, a 1992 graduate now enrolled in Vanderbilt University Law School.

Dr. Clyde Williams, chairman of the campus Rhodes Scholarship committee, said fewer than 10 students are usually selected for final statewide interviews in Jackson.

"We are elated to have four from Mississippi State this year," he added.

Rhodes Scholars are appointed for two years of study at Oxford University in England, with the possibility of renewal for a third year. All educational costs, including matriculation, tuition, laboratory and certain other fees, are covered.

The scholarships were established in the will of Cecil J. Rhodes, an Oxford graduate who went on to become a British colonial pioneer and statesman in Africa. Rhodes, who died in 1902, stipulated that recipients be from the British Commonwealth, Germany and the United States.

In addition to academic support, each scholar receives a maintenance allowance while in school, as well as travel funds to and from Oxford.

Chris Heaps, a psychology major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Barry Heaps. A president's scholar and the recipient of an Anna McLean Undergraduate Research Grant, he plans a career in psycholinguistics, or the study of how humans interpret and understand language.

'Birds in Southern Gardens'

Newly published book pays homage to Southern landscapes, love of birds

Extravagant gardens and an appreciation of wildlife are honored traditions in the South; some 60% of the South's population watch or feed wildlife around their homes.

With its unique climate, soil and longer growing season, the South gives its gardeners singular opportunity to combine the two most popular outdoor activities in the United States: gardening and birding.

A recently published book, Attracting Birds to Southern Gardens blends the unusual: it is a handbook/identification guide geared specifically to the region, as well as one designed to tell readers how to create their own gardens to attract birds, especially songbirds.

It includes a section on forming beneficial garden habitats (shelter, water, food, etc.), a section on planning for all seasons, a bird dictionary, a plant dictionary, and a resource section, plus more than 300 full-color photographs.

Highlights include:

— six original bird paintings by internationally acclaimed artists John P. O'Neill, Douglas Pratt, Murrell Butler — six landscape plans, ranging from formal to informal styles

— a novel contributory chapter on popular misconceptions about birds by J. V. Remsen Jr., ornithologist and curator, LSU Natural Science Museum

— special information on hummingbird gardens

About the authors: Thomas Pope, PhD, specialist, Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service, LSU, has more than 40 garden publications to his credit in 32 years of academic work at such universities as Kentucky, Florida and LSU.

He has written for Southern Living and has done television programs on gardening subjects for more than 12 years. He lives in Baton Rouge.

Neil G. Odenwald, PhD, is a professor of landscape architecture at Louisiana State University. He is an enthusiastic speaker, as well as an honored member of the National Council of State Garden Clubs.

The author of the award-winning Southern Plants and Live Oak Splendor, he has served as a consultant for the Time-Life gardening books.

Charles Fryling Jr., is an associate professor of landscape architecture, LSU. He has been featured in Southern Living and the New Yorker magazine, and his photographs have appeared in several publications and exhibitions.

Fryling is past president of the Delta Chapter of the Sierra Club and the Baton Rouge Audubon Society.

Editor's note: All three authors are scheduled to be at Lydia's Audubon Shoppe in Waveland Sunday, Dec. 5 from 2-4 p.m. for an autographing.
